PREVIOUS REPORTS PERTINENT TO THIS MATTER

There are no previous reports with respect to this matter.

BACKGROUND

The terms of reference for the London Advisory Committee on Heritage (LACH) presently provide for a voting member to be appointed from Museum London in the “Movable Heritage – Museums & Galleries” category. However, it is not always possible, as is the case at the present time, for Museum London to put forward a representative due to the availability of individuals they may nominate for the position. Contact has been made with Museum London and they fully support including The Royal Canadian Regiment Museum as a possible source for an appointee in the “Movable Heritage – Museums and Galleries” category.

Furthermore, C. Breede, Curator, The Royal Canadian Regiment Museum, has indicated his willingness to serve as the representative from the “Movable Heritage – Museums & Galleries” category (See attached application.). The Nominating Committee for the LACH (J. O’Neill, Chair, LACH; Councillor Caranci, Chair, Planning Committee; and, L Rowe, Manager of Legislative Services) unanimously support Mr. Breede’s appointment to the LACH.

Claus Breede began his Museological Career in 1966 when he was appointed as Chief Diver at the Royal Ontario Museum with the Department of New World Archaeology. In that role he had the opportunity to work with the ROM on several projects in Ontario as well as in Central America and the Middle East. Mr. Breede’s skills soon expanded to include land based Archaeology and he was employed on projects excavating the early history of Iran, Egypt, the Virgin Islands and a detailed examination of the Maya in Belize.

In 1978 Mr. Breede was appointed as the first Director of the Bruce County Museum in Southampton and was instrumental in moving that Museum from a small seasonal operation to a fully staffed and professional focused community Museum that is now and recognized as one of the leaders in Ontario.

When the Huron County Museum, in 1983, began the planning phase of what was to become one of the largest capital projects undertaken by a community museum in Ontario, Mr. Breede’s firm, Canadian Cultural Resource Consultants was invited to take on the challenges of a major planning study to guide the process on behalf of the County. On completion of the study in 1985 the County appointed him Project Director to implement this study. For the next four years, Mr. Breede worked closely with members of County Council, Architects, Engineers and representatives of senior levels of Government in creating what is today recognized as the model of a successful community museum capital project that resulted in a County facility that is second to none in the Province and in deed in Canada. In 1989 Claus was appointed to the permanent staff of the County of Huron as the Museum Director, The position he holds today.

As a former Cadet, Claus joined the Cadet Instructors List as an officer in 1979 and during the next ten years served in a variety of roles, including Commanding Officer, in the Canadian Cadet movement. In 1990, Mr. Breede re-badged and joined the 4th Bn. The Royal Canadian Regiment and served that unit as Platoon Commander, Company 2 I/C and Acting Officer Commanding " T " Coy and OC Armoires in Stratford. On leaving the 4th Bn, Captain Breede rejoined the Cadet Instructors Cadre and served three years as a CO of 2923 RC(Army)CC. Two years ago he began working on the establishment of a new cadet unit and in September of last year became the first CO of 3144 RC(Army)CC in Clinton, the newest cadet unit to affiliate itself with The RCR.

In November 2003 Claus left the County of Huron to take up the challenges directing the development and growth of The Royal Canadian Regiment Museum, one of Canada’s leading military museums. Claus is also a member of Landmarks London representing Museums in Group B of that organization.

Mr. Breede earned his B.A. at the University of Toronto where he graduated with a major in Anthropology. Claus also holds a Master’s degree from the Political Science Faculty at the University of Western Ontario.
